Republican Ticket.

Supreme Court Justice - JOHN P. ELKIN, of Indiana County. COUNTY. JOSEPH C. SIBLEY, of Venango County. Assembly - JOHN H. ROBERTSON, of Tionesta. Associate Judge - FRANK X. KREITLER, of Green Twp. Treasurer - WM. H. HARRISON, of Green Twp.

The science of good roads is based on knowing how and providing the first cost. And the best road is the cheapest.

The total number of delegates in the Republican convention at Chicago will be 922—two of them will be from the island of Porto Rico.

QUEEN LILUOKALANI IS IN ST. LOUIS as a guest, but she has to move around with considerable celerity to avoid being classed by the managers as an exhibit.

The Republican party is rich enough in men who are fit to be President not to be obliged to force the nomination for Vice President on a man who does not want it.

PRACTICALLY all of the great questions of the day have been settled by the Republican party. There is no issue before the country. No wonder Judge Parker can't talk.

WHATEVER may be said of Colonel Bryan, it cannot be denied that he is a linguist. He keeps still some of the time and he always puts in his talk where it will do the most damage.

MR. CLEVELAND congratulates his party on a prospect of a "return to sanity." But as the aberration has lasted eight years, would it not be well to hold the patient under observation for a considerable period?

THOSE who make pilgrimages to Esopus declare that Judge Parker is a delightful conversationalist. He has learned the art from Madame de Staël, who became renowned for her eloquence by keeping still and letting her guests do the talking.

At last the case of Postmaster Van Cott, of New York, has been reached in the investigation of postoffice irregularities and the President has ordered that official to dismiss his son from the service and to refund the salary which he paid a relative who did nothing to earn it.

THE condition of Senator Quay's health is not by any means satisfactory to his wide circle of friends, and although he holds his own quite well and seems cheerful and chats with friends, his physicians will not say that his recovery is an assured fact. He is now at his Beaver home, where he will have the rest and quiet that has been largely denied him heretofore.

AUGUST 8th is the day set for the opening of the land to settlement in the Rosebud Indian Reservation in South Dakota. For the first three months the uniform price of the land will be $4 per acre. The drawings for choice of lots will begin at Chamberlain on July 28. In this manner 400,000 acres are to be disposed of. This is continuing the Republican policy of providing homesteads for actual settlers.

It is a little early yet for the people to visit the St. Louis exhibition, since the farmers are still engaged in seeding; but later on the grand rush will begin. The fair really opened a month too soon, and so far about $15,000 per day have been paid for admissions. But it may yet be a grand success, and save Uncle Sam the necessity of taking charge of the gates and putting the receipts into the pockets of those striped trousers.

A SPECIMEN of the solid truth as presented in the Illinois Republican platform: "The prospect of a general revision of the tariff by the Democratic party, whose leaders in Congress are free traders, as their records show, would close the factories and workshops, throw labor out of employment, reduce the price of the products of the farm, bring up general distress and paralyze the industries of the nation." Experience has taught this lesson. Its repetition ought to be unnecessary.

WHILE perhaps nobody but President Roosevelt had ever thought of George B. Cortelyou, in connection with the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, his selection will generally be looked upon as a wise one. Having served as private secretary, first to President McKinley, then to Mr. Roosevelt, he should be thoroughly conversant with political affairs. While he may not possess the craftiness of a Quay or a Hanna, the ladies will lack neither aggressiveness nor sagacity, but those qualities will be achieved without stooping to trickery or the appearance of evil. The people repose confidence in Mr. Cortelyou, even as they do in President Roosevelt.—Oil City Herald.

GLIMPSES OF A BUSY WEEK.

Something About the Biennial Assembly of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, at Newark, New Jersey.

BY NANCY C. MORROW.

But the grand, old, historic church, with a seating capacity of seventeen hundred and more, did not long distract the devotional spirit of the delegates, but really added, in its elegant simplicity, to the spirit of the occasion. Although it was an octogenarian, perhaps, before a woman's voice was heard in prayer within its sacred walls, yet on this occasion were gathered together a well disciplined army of representative women of the Presbyterian church, who stand shoulder to shoulder with the brave women of all other denominations, whose divine inheritance is the heathen, and whose possessions extend unto the uttermost parts of the earth. Besides the delegates were heroines who have stood at the front of the battle in Japan, Corea, China, Persia, Africa, India, Syria and South America, who are home on furlough, and others who, after many years of noble service, have been "honorably discharged" from the irksome duties of a missionary. And surely, as we thus sat at the King's "banqueting house," feasting on his richest fare, meditating on his goodness and mercy, we were ready to exclaim, "His banner over us is love." It would seem that everybody thought so from the fact that the great body of earnest workers sang an inspiration into any wayfaring person who may have gone through curiosity. Not a minute was lost throughout the convention. Everything was systematically arranged and well conducted to the last. The officers and directors of the board with their ribbons blue and white, were soon recognized and many delightful friendships strengthened with those, whom, not having seen, we had learned to love through many years of correspondence, and this privilege has left many beautiful portraits to hang on memory's wall, that vie with the artist's brush. The faces of these devoted Christian women who have consecrated time, strength, wealth and culture to the Lord's work, glow, like the missionaries', with divine love.

We would like to introduce you to all but that is an impossibility. But there are some whom you must meet. Here is Miss Lucille Flanagan, editor of Over Sea and Land, with her pleasant Scotch and Irish face and a crown of silvery white, and there is Miss Ellen C. Parsons, editor of Woman's Work for Woman, whose dark brown eyes take in everything around her, as her splendid articles on What They are Doing in Asia, have shown to the readers of that excellent magazine. Her kind heart and tender sympathy for the distressed were revealed in her address, "Women Whom I Met in Asia," in which she made an appeal for the ideal workers in all parts and asked special prayers for the distressed women of China whose suffering is made the "magnificent" on account of the present war. Miss Parsons is opposite to Miss Flanagan in stature, as in looks, and might be easily lost in a crowd, but her heart and brain are large enough to encompass the world and to tell to the one half how the other half lives. Some of the world's richest treasures are done up in little packages, and we are all the more convinced of this when we meet one of the home corresponding secretaries, Mrs. Wm. Watters, of Philadelphia. The b'aming countenance of this little woman and her gracious bearing help us to forget the surprise that the spirit and energy of one who so well fulfills the onerous duties of her office, should be encased in so small a body. And here is Miss Rachel Lowrie, a young woman of great executive ability, whose special work is to send copies of letters from our missionaries to the secretaries of Presbyterian societies, but whose help in various departments is of untold value to the Woman's Board. All Christian Endeavorers will be interested to meet their secretary, Mrs. F. Boyd Weitzel, whom we wish everybody could know personally, as well as Miss Margaret E. Hodge, Secretary for Bands. We were initiated into the work of the Board with the Presbyterian society through these faithful secretaries, whose remarkable patience suffered long while we learned to solve the intricate problems that confronted the new Presbyterian secretary. And the delightful manner in which they conducted the round table, or conference on young people's work which they had endeavored to have us understand through correspondence, was an education in itself. Miss Hodge is a sister of Courtland Van Rensselaer Hodge, M. D., who, with his beautiful wife, Mrs. Elsie Sinclair Hodge, was married at Paoing, China, June 20th, 1900, and she bears a strong resemblance to her honored brother.

Without missionaries! For, as Dr. Lyman Beecher once said, "A rose-bud of experience is worth a whole armful of flowers from anybody else's garden," and here are many whom we recognize from their orange ribbons, as those who have borne the heat and burden of the day. It is hard to associate names and faces from the short introduction on the platform, but we cannot forget their earnest pleadings for prayer and recruits in their meagre speeches. There are some though, whom we cannot forget, and some who had the privilege of speaking twice whom we have associated with their work. One of special interest to all was Mrs. J. C. Hepburn who, with her husband, was among the first missionaries to go to Japan from the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Hepburn and her venerable husband are in their nineties, and when this saluted mother in Israel was introduced she was greeted with the Chautauqua salute, and while she spoke the audience was breathless and eager to catch every word. She has still quite a clear, pleasant voice and told of her early work in Japan which is now bearing rich fruitage, more than a hundred fold. Some of her early pupils are diplomats at various courts, one of whom is now at the Court of St. James. Mrs. Hepburn is much interested in the present war between Japan and Russia and stated that some of the Japanese officers who have been killed were once her pupils and elders in the Presbyterian church. Dr. Mary Fulton, of China, was, without a doubt, the most charming speaker at the convention. This, perhaps, and the excellent work she has done, has endeared her to the hearts of all mission workers, and the audience was always delighted when Dr. Fulton was announced. Others who were introduced, were Miss Charlotte H. Brown, who spoke of the Sion Seminary, Syria; Mrs. J. L. Potter, Persia; Mrs. Woodbridge O. Johnson, Korea; Mrs. John Newton, India; Mrs. G. W. Marshall, China; Mrs. G. H. Ferris, India, and Mrs. J. G. Kerr, of Canton China, who told of China's only refuge for the insane. This hospital was established by her late husband, Dr. Kerr, and opened its doors to receive China's unfortunate in 1898. It was, sooner opened than a patient was brought, bound in chains. As soon as the patient was made comfortable a small company of Christians assembled in an adjoining room and dedicated the hospital to God. It was with great difficulty that the work was established, but the Chinese soon began to think that Dr. Kerr was able to work miracles when the patients they took to him in chains and cages, were cured, after a time, and able to return home. The people of America have responded generously to Mrs. Kerr's appeal for money to carry on the work and two young physicians have left lucrative practices in response to a call for some one to take up the work Dr. Kerr's death had left to be done. The last address of the convention was made by Miss Belle M. Brain, the well-known writer, "Miss Brain is a very earnest woman, whose deep spiritual life and thorough consecration are shown in every outline of her department. She took as her subject, God's Calls and Men's Answers, showing just how the call of Isaiah enabled him to become a volunteer; Jeremiah doubted his call; Samuel didn't know his call when he heard it; Moses made excuses and wanted some one else to go in his place, while Jonah was heedless to the call till affliction came. Miss Brain made a personal appeal to everyone, and not one could escape. She appealed to those who are looking for others when the call is for themselves, and to the mothers to dedicate their sons and daughters to the Lord's work in foreign lands, saying it is better to give our lives while they are bright and sunny.

GREYHAIR HUMOR.

The story of the French humorist who was presented with a silver-encrusted coffin by a grateful undertaker whom he mentioned in his latest story is not without a parallel in the Lincoln's Inn store of anecdotes. The late Mr. Edward Kniskern, Q. C., while canvassing at Colchester in the seventies, is said to have asked an elector to make him two trunks. "But I'm not a trunk maker," said the disappointed tradesman. "What are you, then?" inquired the candidate. "I'm an undertaker," was the answer. "Very well, then," said the learned gentleman, "make me a coffin instead." When the coffin arrived at his London residence there were members of his family who strongly objected to giving it house room. "Very good," he rejoined. "I'll have it sent to my chambers. It will serve as a receptacle for Beavan's reports."—London Globe.

AN EXAMPLE OF STERN BRAVADO.

For stern bravado, says the United Service Magazine, it would be hard to rival the feat of Ensign Gillis, who saw a stray torpedo coming slowly, but surely, toward the anchored torpedo boat Porter in the Spanish-American war. He sprang overboard, turned the nose of the torpedo in a safer direction and screwed up the firing pin tightly, so that it would not operate. Then, trending water, he saluted Lieutenant Fremont and reported, "Sir, I have to report I have captured a torpedo." "Bring it on board, sir," commanded Fremont, and Gillis actually did so, swimming with it to the ship and fastening tackle to it.

WHOOPIING COUGH.

"In the spring of 1901 my children had whooping cough," says Mrs. D. W. Capps, Ala. "I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with the most satisfactory results. I think this is the best remedy I have ever seen for whooping cough." This remedy keeps the cough loose, lessens the severity and frequency of the coughing spells and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Dr. J. C. Dunn.

A comfortable woman is one who realizes that the world doesn't care a rap what size shoe she wears.

GOOD SPIRITS.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass State could not remedy a bad liver the hundred-and-one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. At Jas. D. Davis.

The trouble with many a young man is that he spends his fortune before he makes it.

CURED HIS MOTHER OF RHEUMATISM.

"My mother has been a sufferer for many years with rheumatism," says W. A. Howard, of Husband, Pa. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after a few applications she declared it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried, in fact she is never without it and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with." For sale by Dr. J. C. Dunn.

Cured by Cal-cura Solvent, the Great New Medicine, After Other Treatment Had Failed.

Mr. Martin Montgomery, of Sylvania, Pa., formerly of Roxbury, N. Y., writing to Dr. David Kennedy, of Kennedy Row, said:

"Your new medicine, Cal-cura Solvent, is wonderful. It cured me of liver and kidney troubles, and rheumatism, after a lot of weary dosing with things that did no good. It is a record breaker and no mistake."

As in Mr. Montgomery's case, rheumatism is often, indeed almost always, complicated with kidney and liver trouble. It is because Cal-cura Solvent acts on the kidneys and liver and at the same time expels uric acid from the blood, that it is such a reliable remedy for rheumatism and the attendant disorders. It cures by removing the cause, therefore the cure is permanent, safe and sure.
